

3rd SHAW Postgraduate Writing Workshop

University of Cambridge

Wednesday 23rd July, 2014

1pm – 6pm

The Society for the History for Women in the Americas (SHAW) will be hosting their third writing workshop exclusively for postgraduate students at the University of Cambridge on Wednesday 23rd July. The workshop is a forum for postgrads to submit a piece of their writing (roughly 2,000 words) for feedback from fellow postgraduates, as well as discuss all the trappings of the academic writing process. The event is free to attend and some small bursaries will be available to assist with travel costs.

The workshops serves as a forum to network with fellow postgraduates, to discuss general themes relating to research and practice the defence of one's thesis.

If you would be interested in attending, or would like to know more, please contact Jon Coburn (Northumbria University) at the below email address. The deadline for submissions is Sunday 13th July.

Thanks to SHAW, the University of Cambridge and the Paul Mellon Professorial Fund for kindly facilitating this event.

shawwriting@gmail.com

